

Online Image/Video Management Services

Image management is a task which addresses various aspects such as image/video uploading, cropping and re-sizing of images, as well as the conversion of the image/video (with the original size) to a better managed size on the server.

All these tasks are performed to be able to place the image/video in the appropriate container within the site as well as store the image with a reduced size within the server ensuring faster access.

Apart from consuming a hefty chunk of the bandwidth which is required to upload such images/videos, these tasks require heavy processing power. A common mistake of running such tasks on the same server of the site results in a downgraded service on the entire server, thus having repercussions on any other action which is being performed on the site too.

InFusion offers a service whereby all the tasks above are performed within their own dedicated servers. Such processing is seamless to the users who are using the service, and it ensures that the client's site will not suffer from any downgraded service (bandwidth and disk space).
